TBRI Tip of the Month

"We never accept hurtful or wild behavior from a child – but we also do not punish, reject, or bribe because those strategies don’t build long-term success."
-- Dr. Karyn Purvis

Levels of Response (1&2): The purpose of correction is to teach. An ideal correction results not only in changed behavior, but also children should feel content and connected to their caregiver. Effective correction requires emotional felt safety, and a balance of structure (correction) with nurture (connection). Remember, always return to playful engagement after a correction!

- ❖ Level One: Playful Engagement
 - Total Voice Control (tone is warm, volume is moderate, cadence is quick and playful)
 - Redirect child without breaking stride
 - Use consistency but also be flexible if needed
 - “Would you like to try that again with respect?” or “Are you askin’ or tellin’?”
- ❖ Level Two: Structured Engagement
 - Total Voice Control (tone is firmer but not harsh, volume is still moderate, cadence is slower)
 - Increase structure by offering limited choices
 - Use ‘re-dos’ as opportunities to succeed, praise positive behavior as soon as it happens
